
In-range boundaries are guaranteed by the model; these intervals do not establish physiological identification.