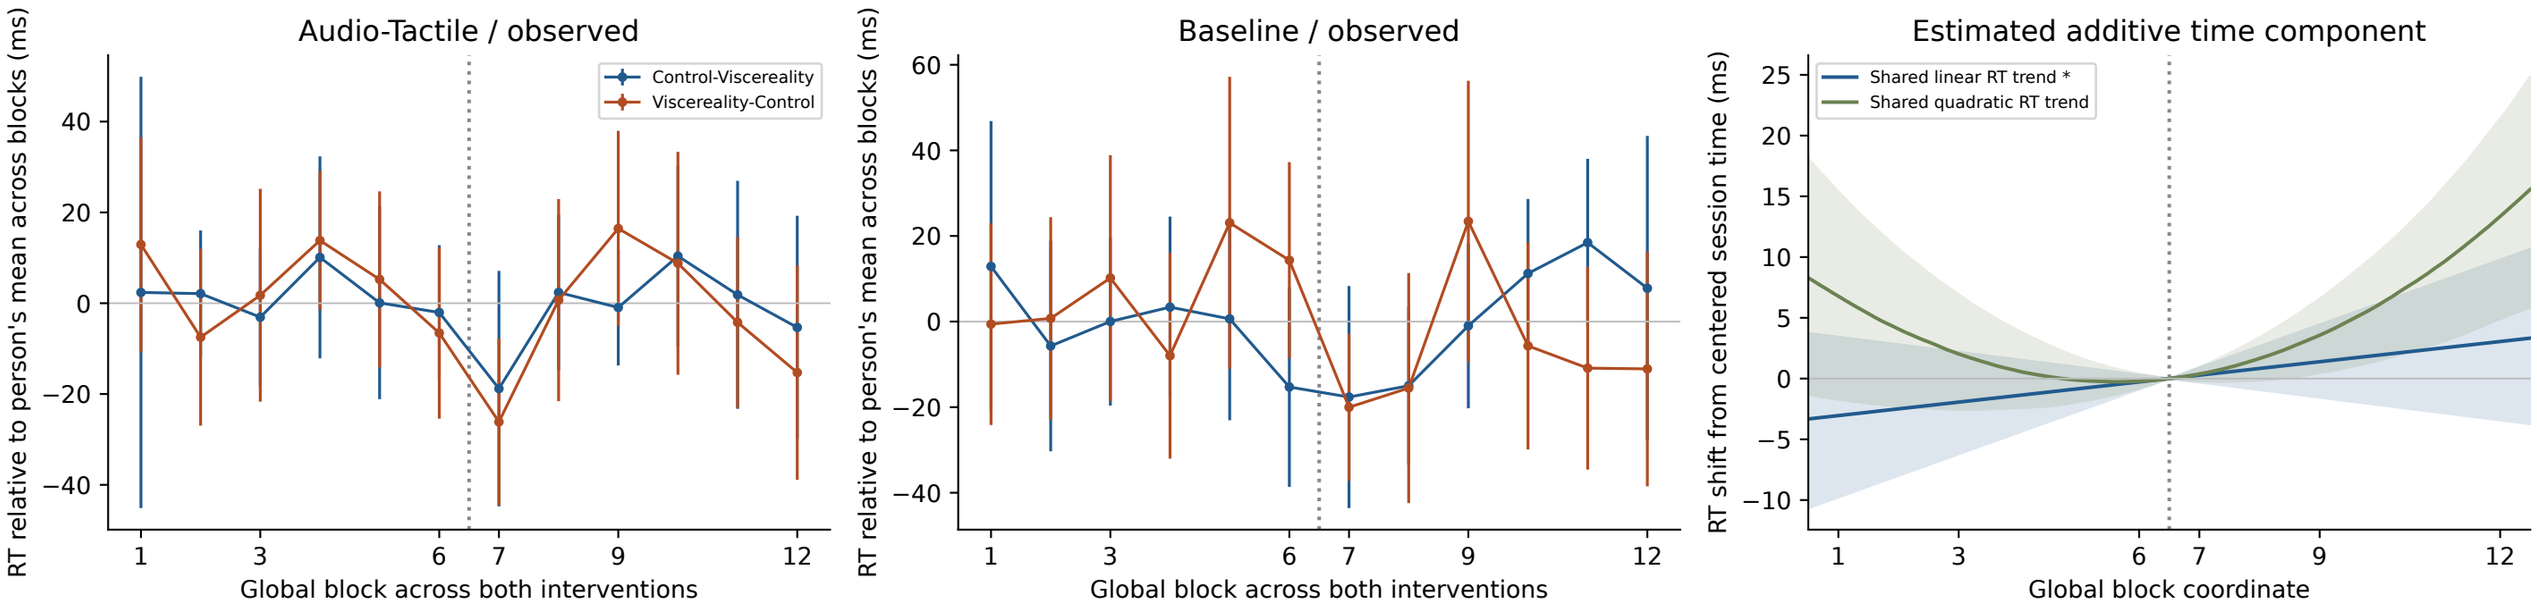
One continuous session; the clock does not restart at the intervention change



Observed panels retain condition/order differences; the model panel shows the additive RT component only.
Trial order is a proxy for session progress, not verified elapsed clock time. A trend does not identify fatigue causally.